Wurster India and b+m agree on cooperation

Wurster India and b+m surface systems have entered into a sales cooperation for the Indian market. Both companies have already been successfully realising projects in India for many years. Wurster India has a strong position specifically in the field of plant engineering; b+m offers the complete range of application and robot technology. "The goal of our cooperation is to combine the strengths of our companies, and to extend our portfolio in India to fully integrated turnkey painting plants", comments Gerd Wurster, managing partner of Wurster India. As of April 1st 2014, b+m will take over all shares of Wurster India. Mr. Wurster who retires from operational business, will continue to support and advice the company in the future.
